

Bereavement Guide

We're here to help at this difficult time

About this guide

We understand that losing someone close to you is an emotional time and can be overwhelming.

Not only do you have to deal with your loss, but it's also necessary to take care of practical matters and it can be difficult to know where to start.

We've produced this guide to explain the steps you'll need to take to sort out any loans held with us and hopefully answer any immediate questions you may have.

Above all please remember that we're here to help.

- You can call our dedicated Specialist Support team on 0800 085 1493 (lines are open Monday to Friday 9am to 5pm)
- You can write to us at: Specialist Support, Kia Finance, 86 Station Road, Redhill, Surrey, RH1 1SR
- You can email us at: SST@kiafinanceuk.co.uk

What to do first

There are a few things you'll need to do before getting in touch with us.

Register the death	You can choose to register the death online via the government website or at your local Register Office. Once registered, you'll be provided with a death certificate. It may be wise to obtain extra copies.
Find out if there is a will	If there's a will, try and obtain a copy as it will name the executor(s). If there's not a will, the next of kin usually becomes the administrator of any estate left behind. An estate consists of possessions, money, investments, or property.
Find out whether probate or confirmation is needed	'Probate' refers to the right to manage the affairs of the deceased (in England, Wales and Northern Ireland). 'Confirmation' refers to the same right in Scotland. <ul style="list-style-type: none">• If there is a Will, you'll need to apply for a 'grant of probate'.• If there isn't a Will, you'll need to apply for a 'grant of letters of administration'.• In Scotland, both of the above are called a 'certificate of confirmation'.• We use 'grant of representation' as a generic term to cover all of the above. For more information visit the relevant government websites for England and Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland.

Getting in touch and what you'll need

You can call us, notify us online or write to us to notify us of a death. Here is a summary of what you'll need.

Proof of death	Usually in the form of a death certificate. The original copy, a certified copy or a clear photograph is acceptable. In the absence of a death certificate, an interim death certificate or coroner's certificate is acceptable.
Proof of your identity	Usually in the form of a valid passport or an unexpired UK/EEA (or Switzerland) photocard driving licence.
Proof of authority to act	Usually in the form of the grant of representation or will. If you don't currently have either of these documents, we can still help you.

What happens next

Once you have provided us with the relevant documents, we will advise you what options are available, which will largely depend on what type of loan the deceased had.

Secured loan
Conditional Sale and secured Personal Contract Purchase products fall under this category.

Pay off the loan
It's sometimes possible to pay off the loan using the proceeds of the estate or an insurance policy.
Breathing space can be granted for a period while this is in process.

Return the vehicle
Alternatively, the vehicle can be returned to us (the finance company).

Unsecured Loan
Personal loan and unsecured Personal Contract Purchase products fall under this category.

Pay off the loan
The debt remains the responsibility of the deceased's estate.

It may be possible to pay off the loan using proceeds from the estate (including insurance payouts and property).

The executor of the estate should inform us when the estate will be able to settle the outstanding balance. Breathing space can be granted while this is in process.
